HIGHLIGHTS

Summer 2016

Summer at the Library is for Grown-Ups, Too!

Now is the PERFECT time to develop the Structural Integrity of your

BOOK FORT

Did you know that, in addition to the fantastic Summer Reading Program for kids, there are plenty of programs and events for adults at the library this summer? From a screening of Bezango, WA (about comic artists in Seattle) to a three-part series on Backyard Ecology to our popular Read It and Eat: Food Book & Potluck club, this summer has a variety of interesting, educational, and entertaining programs for adults to choose from. So while you're bringing your kids or your grandkids in for the Summer Reading Program, be sure to grab a summer calendar from the Adult Reference desk and have some fun yourself!

If you're looking for something great to read this summer, may we suggest our freshly-compiled Adult Winter

Reading Readers' Picks list? All the titles enjoyed by hundreds of readers this past winter, with reviews and recommendations. They're on display next to our Staff Picks book display, so be sure to pick one up today!

Summer Reading @ Lacey Timberland Library

It's that time again – Summer Reading Time! Children of all ages and their families & caregivers are invited to join Timberland Regional Libraries to get active with reading! We'll be celebrating sports, playing, getting in the game and having fun. Thanks to the generosity of the Lacey Friends of the Library and our partnership with the City of Lacey, we'll once again have tons of activities both at the library and at Huntamer Park this summer.

Summer Reading begins at Lacey Timberland Library on Monday June 20, 2016. Come get in the race to read at your library!

ON YOUR MARK,

READ IT AND EAT: FOOD BOOK AND POTLUCK CLUB

Lacey Library

This program is sponsored by the Olympia Food Co-op and the Friends of the Lacey Library.

Join us to discuss different food-themed books and eat snacks provided by the Olympia Food Co-op.

June 20th 3:00pm

June's topic is the food of the Pacific Northwest, including foraging and fungi-related books.

July 18th 3:00pm

Join us to discuss different food-themed books and eat snacks provided by the Olympia Food Co-op. July's topic is the food of Italy.

August 22nd 3:00pm

August's theme is the richly varied foods of the African continent.

Feel free to bring snacks, recipes, or copies of your favorite food books. Like to read about food? Like to eat? You aren't alone!

COMPOSTING 101

June 9th 5:30pm to 7:00pm

Compost is an easy, energy efficient and ecologically sound way to improve soil quality. It transforms waste from your kitchen and garden into a rich humus that can be added to soil, providing plants with a plentiful supply of the nutrients they need to thrive and produce abundant crops. Olympia Food Co-op staff member Jackson Daniels will discuss the six primary composting techniques, how to design or improve current composting situations and strategies for making the best use of your compost. This program is part of the Backyard Ecology series and is sponsored by the Friends of the Lacey Timberland Library.

Recognition

Two of our long standing members, Charlotte Hunter and Dee Corwin, are deserving of special mention for all their service to the Friends of the Lacey Library.

Charlotte, our former Membership committee chair, worked diligently for many years, registering new members at all book sales and keeping the records accurately. She could also be counted on to keep us posted of the current year book sale and board meeting dates, as well as, the dates, times and duties required when volunteering at book sales.

Dee, in her long history with FoLL, has served on the board in just about every capacity. In addition, she was the program chairman in the years when the Friends organized monthly public programs at the library. In her most recent venture, Dee worked on the Books for Babies project, an ongoing partnership with the Thurston County Health Dept. , providing board books for new babies in the Visiting Nurse Program.

The Board of FOLL wishes to publicly acknowledge the dedication and energy of these two women in their many years of service. Thank you, Dee and Charlotte.
